THE MYTH OF HIGH BRIDGE.

Many Treasures Were Supposed to Be Hidden in the Reservoir.

ONLY A GOLD WATCH WAS FOUND WHEN THE WATER WAS DRAINED.

A Giddy Bride Threw It There Eighteen Years Ago—The Gift of Her Husband, but It Did Not Keep Even Time with His—The Old Watchman Told the Story So Often that It Grew and Grew—Vitals of the Timespiece Kept.

One summer evening, just eighteen years ago last August, Patrick Keeler, the watchman at the High Bridge Reservoir, was leaning on the railing which surrounds the three-acre sheet of water and smoking a sentimental after-supper pipe. A young man and a young woman joined him. They had flying to the breeze all the insignia by which usually married young men and women always have been and always will be conspicuous.

The bride asked Patrick the usual newly-married-questions about the sheet of water over which he presided. He replied with that Chesterfieldian urbanity which marks his responses to the same questions even unto the present day.

The young woman was flippant and giddy and she carried a brand new hunting case gold watch in her girdle. It was a wedding present from the bridegroom. After exhausting the subject of the reservoir she turned her attention to the time of day. She wished to know the exact hour and minute. She wished to know if her watch was to the second in accord with her new husband's—if the two ticked in absolute harmony, as newly married watches should do. It would mean a good deal if they did or they didn't, she said.
The young husband beamed upon his bride and pulled out a gold watch of his own. The two were anxiously compared.

"Oh, mine is too slow," cried the bride. The watches won't go together, and it means that we'll be parted in some awful way. I won't have the old watch, so there!"

She emphasized her words by chuck-ling the gleaming gold watch far out into the reservoir. Mr. Keeler received a mental shock. It left him with a wider comprehension of the capacity for lunatic demonstration latent in newly married young women. Even the young husband seemed to be brought rudely down to mother earth, and a worthy dollar-and-cent's glow came into the vacuous eyes.

The next day the young man went around to see how much it would cost to have the reservoir drained, but he was easily convinced that it would be inconsiderable to cut off the water supply of a great city while he fished in the mud for a lost watch. He went his way and was heard from no more.

From that day to this the legend of the spurned wedding gift has been cherished in the neighborhood. The gold watch at the bottom of the reservoir grew to a dozen gold watches and diamonds and bracelets and so on, until the tradition prevailed that the High Bridge Reservoir held was a glittering assortment of jewels and gems.

That was the reason why there was so much excitement up around the reservoir last week, when the news got about that the water was to be drained off and the rich deposit of gold and precious stones exposed to view.

It was John Kain who found the gold watch. It lay fast in the mud, where it fell eighteen years ago, and Kain caught its yellow gleam as it was turned up to the sunlight once more. The hands and the figures on the face were gone and the inside was only a mass of rust, but the case was good. Supt. Adams told Kain to take it home and have a locket made of it for his little girl to wear. It bears a monogram on its surface of the letters "J. H. H."

Mr. Kain's story is told in England.
LONDON, Sept. 18.—Mrs. Blaine, widow of James G. Blaine, formerly American Secretary of State, her daughter, Miss Blaine, Blaine, and the daughter of Senator Don Cammeron left a carriage today for Paris. The party spent the summer in a carriage.

A CABLE-CAR LIFE GUARD.

Being Tried on Broadway, but No One Has Yet Fallen Before It.

There is attached to car No. 29, of the Broadway cable road, a life guard known as Crawford's patent automatic pick-up fender. It is made in Pittsburgh and has been in use here for a week.
Car No. 29 has not run into any one since this guard was attached, and thus a human life has not been made, but it is asserted that a person would be scorped from the road-bed by it instead of being mangled under the wheels. The fender is similar in shape to a bench seat, and has an iron frame with a wire netting stretched across it. It is hung by rods to the front of a car, and

CABLE-CAR SAFETY GUARD. can thus swing up and down. By an arrangement of spiral springs it can be adjusted to any height from the ground.
It is now set at three inches from the roadbed. The springs give it sufficient flexibility, so that when it strikes a large obstruction the guard will be pressed close to the track and cannot pass over the object. The mode of hanging it to the car and the spring attachment allow it to clear small objects, such as protruding stones, etc.

"This fender has been in use in other cities on cable cars, and is said to have shown its ability to save life." It is the best fender I have seen so far," said Supt. Newell, of the Broadway line, "and I am sure it will be a number of life-guards on the road, and they have all had great pretensions but little merit. This one seems to be practical, but unfortunately the only true test would be one that might not be agreeable to the person experimented with. The company has not yet decided to adopt any patented form of life-guard, and I do not know that it will."

SHE IS DONNA DOMINGUEZ NOW.

Miss Helen Murphy, of San Francisco, Married in London.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—The marriage of Miss Helen Murphy, of San Francisco, to Don Vicente F. Dominguez, son of Senor L. F.
Dominguez, the Argentine Minister to Great Britain, took place today in the Catholic Chapel of St. Peter and St. Edward, in Westminster. Cardinal Vaughan pronounced the sacrament.

The wedding was private, and Miss Isabel Murphy was the only bridesmaid. The bride was given away by Sir Charles Russell, the English Attorney-General, who was attired in a plain white satin dress trimmed with lace and a veil of Alencon lace.

After the church services a reception was given at Thomas's Hotel, in Berkeley Square, which was largely attended.
Don Vicente and his bride subsequently left for Hastings on the English Channel, where the honeymoon will be spent.

CARTER HARRISON'S WEDDING DAY.

Inside a Year seems to be the Decision of the Lucky Lady.

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—Major Carter Harrison, who is engaged to Miss Annie Howard, the New Orleans heiress, says the wedding will take place at Elmhurst, Ill., on "When?" "Now that is a funny question to ask me. It remains with the other side of the house."

"Has the date been fixed?" "Supposing it has, who can tell a woman's mind?"
"Will it take place this week?" "No."
"This month?" "No."
"Next month?" "It will take place inside of a year. That's as near as I can tell you. You will know in plenty of time. I publish the bans so everybody will know when it is to take place. There is not going to be any secret about it."

AN UNEXPECTED SCENE IN A THEATRE.

A Pittsburgh Detective Mingles with Actors on the Stage.

REFER TO THE WORLD:—The Alvin Theatre was the scene of a sensational series of incidents at the close of the performance of the Maude-Mania "Friend Fritz" company tonight. County Detective Holtzhoover tried to serve a warrant on Manager Harry Askins.
The latter knew the constables were after him and kept out of their way all day and evening. At the close of the performance, during a reception on the stage, one of the constables saw Askins in the wings.
The manager saw the officer and jumped out of a window before the warrant could be read to him. He was finally captured and brought before Alderman Anderson, where he entered bail for a hearing. The warrant was issued on the suit of Manager McLaughlin, who advanced Askins $200 last season to get Audon's Dixie out of town.

Le Bontillier Bros 14th St.

Judge Gildersleeve, of the Superior Court, has just rendered an important decision in regard to

UNDERWEAR

in favor of Le Bontillier Bros.,

Sustaining them in their claims that they have now, and have had at all times, a right to make and sell Genuine "Jaeger" underwear, made upon the system prescribed by Prof. "Dr.
Gustav Jaeger," and to describe it by these terms, without interference from the Dr. Jaeger's Sanitary Woollen System Company, their manufacturers or any other person.

Judge Gildersleeve says: "It is the privilege of the defendant (Le Bontillier Brothers), unmolested by plaintiff (Dr. Jaeger's S. W. S. Co.) or by any person, to manufacture and vend underwear of the same qualities and characteristics as that produced by plaintiff."

"Neither the plaintiff nor its assignors acquired any trade-name rights from Dr. Jaeger.
He never had any to grant."

"The signification acquired by the name 'Jaeger' is such that the name is as true in its application to the all-wool goods made upon the 'Jaeger' system sold by defendant (Le Bontillier Brothers) as to the goods sold by the plaintiff."

"From an inspection of the large numbers of exhibits of underwear put in evidence by the plaintiff and the defendant, and after carefully considering the evidence of experts as to quality, I am of the opinion that there is no substantial difference in the quality of material or in the skill of the manufacture of the respective exhibits of said underwear, when the comparison is confined to the garments that are all wool."

Judge Gildersleeve is of opinion that underwear containing part cotton should not be classed as "Jaeger" underwear.

In this trial witnesses testified that the Dr. Jaeger's S. W.
S. Co. had stamped and sold as genuine "Jaeger" underwear, garments which contained dyes, and which were not made of stockinet, and therefore were not according to the system as taught by "Prof. Dr. G.
Jaeger."

We sell no cotton-mixed goods as "Jaeger"
underwear.

All our "Jaeger" underwear is made of stockinet, all wool, and none of our goods are made by the dealers who make the goods for the Dr.
Jaeger's S. W. S. Co.

This decision completely foils the efforts of the Dr. Jaeger's S.
W. S. Co. to establish an unwarrantable monopoly.

We offer complete lines of Fall and Winter weights, in our celebrated genuine
